Reigning Miss Nevada Nia Sanchez of Henderson returns to town today for the first time since making history June 8, the night she was crowned 2014 Miss USA in Baton Rouge, La., becoming Nevada's first pageant queen to take the tiara.

"I am so excited for my official return to Nevada," said Sanchez, 24, in a news release. "Ever since I was crowned as Nevada's first Miss USA, I have been looking forward to going back to where my journey started, surrounded by family, friends and loved ones. I'm so excited to see everyone!"
